Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The specification fails to describe "particles at least 0.002 micron in average dimension." The specification only describes such particles having a size range of 0.002 to 20 microns (see pages 10-11). Thus, the specification only describes an upper limit of 20 microns and not an unlimited upper limit, which is set forth by "at least..." as claimed. In the decision in In re Wertheim, 541 F.2d 257, 191 USPQ 90 (CCPA 1976), the ranges described in the original specification included a range of "25%- 60%" and specific examples of "36%" and "50%." A corresponding new claim limitation to "at least 35%" did not meet the description requirement because the phrase "at least" had no upper limit and caused the claim to read literally on embodiments outside the "25% to 60%" range, however a limitation to "between 35% and 60%" did meet the description requirement. Nowhere in the present specification is the "at least" limitation present and there are no examples or description of particles larger than 20 microns. Therefore, it is clear that at the time of filing, applicant only envisioned a size range of 0.002 to 20 microns and not the "at least 0.002 micron" range, which has no upper limit.

The dependent claims fall therewith.

Changing "at least 0.002 micron" to "of 0.002 to 20 micron" to provide adequate written description can obviate this rejection.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-22 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-36 of U.S. Patent No. 6,589,502. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the patented claims are directly within the scope and encompassed by the pending claims. In other words, the pending claims are anticipated by the patented claims in a manner that the patented claims are in a species relationship with the generic pending claims. This is because the patented claims limit the polymeric matrix to a biocompatible polymer, while the pending claims just recite polymeric matrix. Also, the size range of the particles is somewhat more specific in the patented claims. The pending claims, e.g., claim 1, include a non-radioactive sleeve; however, this is set forth in patented claim 8. The patented claims also include the various limitations set forth in the pending dependent claims, as well as, claims drawn to methods of making and methods of use that are directly within the scope of the generic method claims pending herein.
